A special to the New York World of yesterday says:

The military commission appointed to investigate the rumors and charges concerning the conduct of the Ninth regiment of this State during its visit to Yorktown has made its report to Governor Long.

[New York Herald.]

Pittisburgh, November 15.—A sensation was caused here to-day by the arrest of two insurance-men on charges of conspiracy and making false statements to life-insurance companies. In other words, they are accused of engaging in "death-bed" insurance schemes. The operations of the agents of the "death-bed" companies have grown to be a "certain to be a has made its report to Governor Long.
The commission states that inquiries have been made and evidence taken principally in the cities of New York, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Washington, and Riehmond, and along the lines of railroad and steamboat communication between these several points. Under great provocation the newspapers of Richmond and other southern cities preserved a reticence and moderation worthy of the highest praise. The Richmond editors actually suppressed all account of the ruffianism on the morning after its occurrence, and it was only when the facts became public at the North, and denials injudicious and shanderous in tone appeared in some northern newspapers, the display of good sense and good temper on the part of the respectable southern of the face. The Fire Underwriters.

NEW YORK, November 16.—The National Convention of the United Fire Underwriters in America, as already announced, met in the hall of the New York Board of Underwriters, No. 115 Broadway, yester-day morning at 11 o'clock. The order of iness, as already outlined, was observed by the Convention, save in one nota-ble particular. The original programme provided that the report of a special committee of seven, appointed October 7th, on the question of rates and commission, would be the first step in the proceedings. But realizing the fact that underwriters entertain widely-different opinions on the que-tlon, the Executive Committee decided to rearrange the programme so that matters less likely to provoke heated discussions should be first disposed of by the meeting. Harmony having thus been presumably asbeen anticipated.

Among the questions debated were the insurance of commissions, which relates to the insurable interest of commission merchants in merchandise intrusted to them for sale by manufacturers; the question whether er not Federal, if constitutional, whether or not Federal, if constitutional, is not preferable to State supervision of the insurance business; the subject of taxation of insurance companies in all its essential points, and the value of cooperation on the part of the insurer and the insured in preventing unwise and promoting sound legislation. Another question on the programme is the danger of electric lighting of the sworld, but among the process of the sworld, but among a sked for an adjournment until to-morrow.
